FEDERAL RULES OF EVIDENCE
502(D) CLAWBACK ORDER

Judge: Hon. Virginia K. DeMarchi

Pursuant to Federal Rules of Evidence 502(d), the production or disclosure of any documents and accompanying metadata (“Protected Documents”), protected from discovery, including under the attorney-client privilege, work product doctrine, opinion work product doctrine, the joint defense or common interest privilege, privacy laws and regulations, or any other immunity from discovery (collectively “privilege or protection”), does not result in the waiver of any privilege or protection, including subject matter waiver, associated with such Protected Documents as to the receiving party or any third parties in this or in any other state or federal proceeding regardless of the circumstances of production. This Order provides the maximum protection allowed by Federal Rule of Evidence 502(d) with regard to Protected Documents. Federal Rule of Evidence 502(b) does not apply to any disputes regarding Protected Documents, and instead this Stipulated 502(d) Order governs all disputes regarding Protected Documents produced in this litigation. Nothing contained herein requires the production of Protected Documents.

1. CLAWBACK AGREEMENT

In the event that a producing party discovers that it produced Protected Document(s), it shall provide written notice of the claim of privilege or protection to the receiving party (a “Clawback Notice”), sufficiently identifying the Protected Document(s) within a reasonable time.

As soon as practicable or within a reasonable time after providing the Clawback Notice, the producing party shall provide (i) if only a portion of the document contains privileged or protected material, a new copy of the document utilizing the same bates number(s) as the original that has been redacted to protect the privilege or protected material; or (ii) if the entire document is privileged or protected, a slip sheet identifying the same bates number(s) as the original noting that the document has been withheld. Any Protected Document that is the subject of a Clawback Notice will be included on a privilege log if and as required by the privilege-logging procedures agreed to by the parties or ordered by the Court.

2. PROCEDURES FOLLOWING CLAWBACK NOTICE

a) Within ten (10) business days of receipt of a Clawback Notice (regardless of whether the receiving party agrees with or plans to challenge the producing party's claim of privilege or protection), the receiving party must use reasonable efforts to return or destroy the Protected Document(s), all copies thereof, and any notes that reproduce, copy, or otherwise disclose the substance of the Protected Documents and certify to the producing party when this return or destruction is complete.

b) If a receiving party challenges a claim that a Protected Document specified in a Clawback Notice is privileged or protected, the receiving party shall notify the producing party of its challenge within 14 business days of receiving the Clawback Notice.

c) Within 14 business days of the producing party receiving notification of the challenge, the parties shall meet and confer in an effort to resolve their disagreement. If the parties are unable to resolve their disagreement, either party may submit the issue to the Court for a determination. Any such disputes must be brought to the Court in compliance with the discovery dispute resolution procedure outlined in Judge DeMarchi's Standing Order for Civil Cases.

d) The receiving party must not use or disclose the Protected Document(s) covered by the Clawback Notice during the time in which the receiving party is challenging the Protected Document(s).

e) The parties may stipulate to extend the time periods set forth in paragraphs (a)-(c) as appropriate.

3. PROCEDURE UPON DISCOVERY BY A RECEIVING PARTY OF PRODUCED PROTECTED DOCUMENTS

In the event that a receiving party discovers that it has received or examined Document(s) that it reasonably believes are or may be privileged or protected, the receiving party promptly shall stop reading or reviewing the document and (i) sequester the Document(s), and (ii) within four business days of such discovery, notify the producing party of the possible production or disclosure by identifying the bates range(s) of the Document the receiving party reasonably believes are or may be privileged or protected, and were or may have

1 been produced or disclosed (a “Production Notice”). Upon the producing party receiving 2 a Production Notice, if the producing party determines that the subject documents are privileged 3 or protected, and serves a Clawback Notice, the receiving party shall use reasonable efforts to 4 return or destroy the Protected Document(s) as described in Section 2 above, and the producing 5 party shall promptly provide any replacement images as described in Section 2 above.

6 4. PROCEDURES DURING DEPOSITION AND HEARING

7 a) If, during a deposition, a producing party claims that a document being used in 8 the deposition (e.g., marked as an exhibit, shown to the witness, or made the subject of 9 examination) contains material that is privileged or protected, the producing party may, in its sole 10 discretion, do one or more of the following: (a) allow the Protected Document to be used during 11 the deposition without waiver of any claim of privilege or protection; (b) allow questioning about 12 the Protected Document but instruct the witness not to answer questions concerning the parts of 13 the Protected Document containing privileged or protected material; or (c) object to the use of 14 the Protected Document at the deposition, in which case no questions may be asked 15 and no testimony may be given relating to the Protected Document or the privileged or protected 16 portion of the Document until the matter has been resolved by agreement or by the Court. In all 17 events, once the Protected Document is no longer in use at the deposition, the receiving 18 party shall immediately sequester all copies of the Protected Document. As to any testimony
19 subject to a claim of privilege or protection, the producing party shall serve a Clawback Notice 20 within ten business days after receipt of the final transcript of the deposition, after which the 21 parties shall follow the procedures set forth in Sections 2 and 3, as applicable. Pending 22 determination of any challenge to such a Clawback Notice, all parties with access to the deposition 23 transcript shall treat the relevant testimony in accordance with Section 2(d). In the event the Court 24 decides the clawback dispute in the receiving party’s favor and the receiving party was denied the 25 opportunity to examine a witness as to the materials at issue, the witness shall be made available as 26 soon as practicable after the Court’s decision.

1 b) If a receiving party uses discovery materials in a brief or at a hearing, and the 2 producing party has not served a Clawback Notice as to those materials in advance of the briefing
3 event or hearing, the producing party must promptly object and serve a Clawback Notice
4 within ten business days of receipt of the briefing or the hearing. Thereafter, the procedures set 5 forth in Section 2 apply. To the extent any privileged or protected material is placed into the public
6 record in connection with briefing or a hearing, and the Producing Party timely serves a Clawback
7 Notice, the receiving party shall (a) withdraw the portion of the briefing and exhibits that contain 8 privileged or protected material, (b) request the court seal that material, or (c) join or not oppose a 9 motion to seal the privileged or protected material.

10 c) Notwithstanding the foregoing, any document used by any Party in a deposition or 11 court filing in this action, that a Producing Party does not clawback within ten business days of 12 use (“Used Document”) shall not be eligible for clawback under this Order. Such ineligibility for 13 clawback of that document under this Order shall not result in a subject matter waiver in any other 14 state or federal proceeding.

15 5. PROHIBITION ON USE OF PRIVILEGED INFORMATION

16 To the extent any party is aware that it has obtained Protected Documents, has received a 17 Clawback Notice, or it is reasonably apparent that the party has obtained privileged or protected 18 information through production, disclosure, or communications, such Protected Documents and/or 19 information may not be submitted to the Court, presented for admission into evidence, or sought 20 in discovery in this proceeding or in any other proceeding or action. The party must promptly 21 notify the opposing party of its possession of such privileged information and certify the return or 22 destruction of the Protected Documents and/or information as described in Section 2 and 3 above.

1 PURSUANT TO STIPULATION, IT IS SO ORDERED.
